"The BCRC is an invaluable resource for those who are navigating breast cancer. They were 100 per cent there for me when I needed guidance and support after receiving my diagnosis. As follow up, their monthly group meeting is an opportunity to meet and share with other women their concerns and experiences."

"I have learned a lot about the American culture, and through that process, I have come to appreciate many things about my own. I want to continue to improve my reading and my writing skills: that's why I am continuing to take classes here."
